SOCIALIST WORKER STUDENT SOCIETY MEETING

The racist and fascist right are on the rise, from Donald Trump in the White House to Tommy Robinson over here.

Building on years of state sponsored racism and Islamophobia, they are a new and terrible threat.

However, this isn't the total picture. The polarisation in society has also led to a rise in left wing forces and a big interest in socialist ideas.

Trump has faced huge resistance to his bigotry, with 300,000 marching against him when he visited Britain. And there is also resistance to the fascists and racists.

The support for Jeremy Corbyn shows millions of people want change and an alternative to racism, austerity, climate change and war.

In the climate of political turmoil and polarisation, we ask: is socialism possible? Come and join the debate at this open meeting.
